LeakFrog® Customer Testimonials

- I purchased three earlier this year and they have saved me on several occasions, twice from under the kitchen sink and once under a toilet plumbing. I highly recommend this item!
- I bought one just for fun and stuck it near a washing machine, about a week later the washing machine malfunctioned and flooded my floor. The little froggie started making all kinds of noise and I found the leak before it turned into a major problem.
- Saved me and my fish, a 20 gallon aquarium can leak all over the floor if a 20 lb cat falls through the top and cracks the tank". My cat loves to hang out on the top of my fish tank – leaning over and looking at potential tasty treats. One day he jumped on top and fell through the aquarium canopy. Of course the canopy gave way causing the feline to fall in. I'm not sure if the wet cat dripping near the LeakFrog or the crack in the side of the tank made the alarm go off but I heard the beep when I got home. Who knows how much more time the gasping fish had before they were lost. Thanks to Leakfrog- I had early detection and was able to save my fish. The cat has changed addresses. Cousteau the cat now lives with my ex.
- The air conditioner had started leaking and it notified us immediately. Without it, we would have had to replace carpet and file an insurance claim.
- I got the warning I needed to save stuff in the basement from getting soaked.
- This little frog saved us a few thousand dollars in damage.
- I placed a LeakFrog by the freezer door a few months ago. I had forgotten about it until the family noticed the alarm. Somehow the freezer door was left open and started to defrost. The LeakFrog caught the first small amounts of water on the floor and alerted us. Huge amounts of food were saved by the little guy. Thanks for such an inexpensive and innovative product.
- This past Sunday the lil guy proved its worth. We had the A/C running and the float on the condensation trap was stuck, therefore it filled up and continued to empty on the floor. BEEP BEEP BEEP, lil LeakFrog alerted me to the problem, I cleaned up the small puddle, corrected the problem and patted my lil LeakFrog on the head.

- It woke me up in the middle of the night to alert me that water was coming into my garage! I was able to move stuff so it didn't get wet!
- First use was a wall crack I've been monitoring in basement... during a huge rainstorm that lasted all day, the LeakFrog went nuts and I saw the crack had opened up. Moved stuff and lost nothing. Second time was Frog Two over by the sump pump. We lost power for several days in a huge storm and every time the sump pump crested (and therefore time to bail it out) the frog beeped madly and saved the day (and the basement).
- LeakFrog detected the leak on our icemaker quickly so we just cleaned up with a towel, instead of flooding the entire kitchen floor.
